

To take away customers choice based on the suggestions of a competitor is completely against a free-market society. My current ISP is a larger one in the area and has taken over smaller ISP's when they couldn't stay in business and has grown to over 24000 members. That would be a lot of angry customers. Not to mention how many there are across the US, this is merely a regional ISP. Two choices, are not enough choices. Especially since my home does not qualify for one of the choices, I would have no choice.
Thank you for your time.
Sean Franklin